Renaissance Newark Airport Hotel Completes Multi-Million Dollar Renovation

Elizabeth, N.J. (June 8, 2011) – General Manager Jeff Plamondon today unveiled the newly transformed Renaissance Newark Airport Hotel, capping off a multi-million dollar renovation project which took several months to complete.

According to Mr. Plamondon, the renovation was both structural and cosmetic and included working with sound engineers to replace every window in the hotel to make it sound-resistant; installing a four pipe system to enable guests to use heating or air conditioning no matter what time of year; and reconfiguring the guest rooms footprints to add two additional feet to each room.

Additionally the property was completely transformed from a design perspective to create an environment that represents the distinctive and stylish ambiance of the Renaissance brand. The guest rooms, lobby, restaurants and lounges, meeting space, fitness center, swimming pool, and Club Lounge with sweeping views of the New York City skyline and Newark Airport were all entirely redone in a bid to provide travelers to New York and New Jersey with a sophisticated and urban hotel experience. The hotel now offers the newest guest rooms and newest, largest, and most flexible meeting and event space in the Newark, NJ area.

The hotel's restaurant, the Ironbound Grill, also features an exciting new menu which offers cuisine native to the ethnic groups represented in the local community – Italian, Spanish, and Portuguese – as well as the unique breads from area bakeries in keeping with the Renaissance brand's goal of capturing the flavor of the hotel's local surroundings.

The Renaissance Newark Airport Hotel features 397 lavish guest rooms and suites comfortably equipped with refrigerators, laptop safes, connectivity panels, and 37" flat panel HD televisions; 17,000 square feet of meeting and event space; an indoor pool; 24-hour fitness center; Ironbound Grill restaurant; and den/library for relaxing.
