the facility with holes playing around native desert vegetation, canyons and several lakes. With the two 18-hole Palmer designs--the 12 hole lighted, Cloud Nine, par 3 course (with holes reminiscent of some of the game's best par 3s) and Seventh Heaven, the world's premier real-grass putting course complete with bunkers, water hazards and undulation--that is certainly the case. You'll have fun, fun, fun when you take your clubs to Siena Golf Club. Lee Schmidt and Brian Curley, co-designers of the layout, had the goal of building a challenging yet very playable layout. Their mission was accomplished with the Siena design that takes you over rolling fairways and greens that are guarded by large bunkers. In fact, 97 bunkers cover the course. Plus, six water features enhance the beauty and challenge of the design. Just the right combination of desert landscape and lush greenery creates a unique beauty. There's enough variety in the design, and just enough trouble, to keep you focused.
