MARRIOTT IN ACTION

Marriott applies its "Sprit to Serve" philosophy not only to people, but to critical issues facing the environment. From environmental clean-ups and recycling, to conserving energy and water, Marriott's operating units are constantly employing methods that preserve their natural surroundings and resources.

In fact, the company is on track to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by one million tons over 10 years by 2010. Our company's Environmentally Conscious Hospitality Operations (ECHO) program provides guidance to our properties and business units in several key areas..

WATER AND ENERGY CONSERVATION

When we first embarked on water and energy conservation, the effort was driven primarily by rising costs and environmental awareness in California and Europe. Over time, hotels world-wide have adopted these best practices. As a result, Marriott and its guests have reduced our water usage by more than 15 percent over the last five years.

Marriott's conservation efforts have been recognized by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, which has awarded more than 250 Marriott Hotels with its ENERGY STAR® label, more than any other hotel company.

The EPA also presented Marriott with its 2007 ENERGY STAR® Sustained Excellence Award and has named the company "Partner of the Year" since 2004.

MARRIOTT IN ACTION

CLEAN AIR INITIATIVES

In 2006, Marriott led the industry by going smoke-free across all hotels in the United States and Canada, creating clean air in guest rooms, restaurants, lounges, meeting rooms, public space and employee work areas. Encompassing more than 2,300 hotels, this was the broadest such decision in the industry.

REDUCE - REUSE – RECYCLE

More than 96 percent of Marriott Hotels around the world actively recycle and Marriott International corporate headquarters in Washington, DC recycles more than one third of its solid waste. The company is currently piloting a program at 30 hotels to measure, standardize and expand recycling company-wide.

Marriott believes in responsibly providing authentic experiences for guests in a range of locations. Whether protecting the sea turtle habitat in Costa do Sauipe, Brazil, or the monkeys and macaws in the rain forest in Los Suenos, Costa Rica, our hotels always strive to be good environmental stewards and responsible neighbors
