CHAPTER 1

Where time flows slowly a tale rich in history. In places where nature opens up, old-world flavors take shape and the traveler goes off on adventures in the wild.
The Serchio Valley is the most fascinating and mysterious corner of Tuscany.

Situated between the Alpi Apuane (Apuan Alps) and the Appenino Tosco-Emiliano, it is unique for its particularly rich vegetation, which offers the traveler a truly spectacular natural setting with enchanting mountains as a backdrop. In these places that hold ancient memories - where nature, art, legend and tradition blend wonderfully together - one can wander among thick forests full of chestnut trees and beech trees and into small villages where it seems as if time has stood still.
Crossing into the Serchio Valley, passing the ancient Ponte del Diavolo (Devil’s Bridge) and truly plunging oneself in this area means taking in the wonderful scenery of the valley and the mountains, which hold many surprises. There are medieval villages, fortresses and other strongholds that are still intact today. These are the places that tell of the rural, historical and cultural traditions along with museums that are unique in the world, churches, monasteries and old sanctuaries. It’s a historic place for a journey that is like a story waiting to be told.
Many places to “skim through” like the pages of an old book

Ponte del Diavolo (Devil’s Bridge)
This work of medieval engineering goes back to the 14th century. According to an ancient legend, the devil himself completed this bridge in exchange for the soul of the first person to cross it.

Fortezza delle Verrucole (Verrucole Castle)
This medieval castle overlooks an entire valley. Local legend has it that there’s a secret tunnel leading to a castle in a neighboring town.

Duomo di Barga (Barga Cathedral)
The cathedral dates back to the year 1000. One note of particular interest is the cathedral’s door with engraved Greek letters, Latin letters and mysterious symbols that have never been able to be deciphered.

Case Museo Giacomo Puccini and Giovanni Pascoli (House Museums of Giacomo Puccini and Giovanni Pascoli).
The former homes of the famous composer and famous impressionist poet have been turned into museums. Both of these masters found inspiration in these places that have always moved great artists.
Other places worth a visit include the Museum of Plaster Statues, the Ghivizzano castle, the Rocca Ariostesca, the Chestnut Museum or the smallest theater in the world – the famous Teatrino which is a Fondo Ambiente Italiano property in Vetriano.
Experience nature in order to recapture a forgotten sense of equilibrium surrounded by natural parks, lakes and caves.

Allow yourself to fully relax as you stroll through romantic fields full of flowers. But then get your adrenaline going as you head down a mountain stream or climb up the face of a rock. So many emotions to be discovered in the heart of the Serchio Valley, which can be both gentle and forceful.
The traveler’s eyes take in so many different landscapes

Grotta del Vento (Wind Cave)
This is an underground treasure in the Alpi Apuane park where one can admire stalactites, stalagmites, little lakes, small streams and wells, all accessible via smooth paths.

Parco dell’Orecchiella (Orecchiella Park)
This nature reserve is populated by large forests of beech, fir and chestnut trees. Wolves, bears, wild boar and deer also call the park home. Don’t miss the beautiful garden with mountain flowers.

Lago Santo (Holy Lake)
Three streams run into this natural basin. It is set in the green mountains of the Appennino Tosco Emiliano. At 1,500 meters of altitude, it is the perfect place for taking cool summer walks.

Monte Forato (Holed Mountain)
This is a fascinating mountain in the Alpi Apuane. It takes its name from the natural arch that connects two peaks. It’s easy to reach and very unique because of the hole at the top. It is a big draw for hikers and travelers.
There are many other places to discover, like the Pania di Corfino botanical gardens, the Gramolazzo lake, the Campocatino oasis and the many paths in the Alpi Apuane park.
Genuine cuisine that envelops the senses with unique scents and flavors that will appeal to those looking for new culinary experiences.

Porcini mushrooms, forest chestnuts, wild game, sausage, cheeses, jams and honey are created artisanally according to the oldest, most traditional methods. Indigenous dishes like spelt soup, polenta, legume soups and fish specialties using fish caught in mountain streams are always accompanied by local wines and exquisite craft beers that are exported around the world.
Many typical products to enjoy right at the source

The Serchio Valley boasts three foods that are recognized by Slow Food:

Prosciutto Bazzone (Bazzone Ham)
This ham has a wonderful aroma of acorn and chestnut. It comes from local pigs that have been raised in a natural setting. Its name comes from the shape of the ham, which seems like a “bazza”, a protruding chin.

Biroldo
This special blood sausage is made with the head of the pig and features flavors like wild fennel, nutmeg, clove, cinnamon and star anise.

Pane di Patate (Potato Bread)
A rustic bread made more delicate by the use of potatoes. Its intense aroma comes from the way it is cooked in a wood-burning oven. It is made with wheat flour and potatoes that are boiled and then mashed. It is the perfect accompaniment to salami.

Visiting old pork butcher shops, mountain dairies, stone mills and breweries allows one to go on a tasting discovery experience: try genuine products right where they are made using recipes that have been handed down for generations.
Make sure to try the local spelt, chestnut flour, Casciana apples, honey, pecorino cheese, Formenton Otto File corn flour, the Pasimata dessert and the liqueur called Elisir di China di Pieve Fosciana.
ADVENTURES IN THE WILD

Renaissance Tuscany Il Ciocco Resort & Spa offers to the most adventurous guests the possibility to experiment unique emotions in a suggestive and pristine context. All Hotel guests have free access to the “Il Ciocco Estate & Park”, where the Resort is located.

If you want to spend a weekend or a whole week relaxing, if you want to leave behind all the load resulting from work stress and daily routine, if you love walking or cycling in the countryside or on mountain trails in full safety, then, perhaps, you will appreciate a holiday in the Serchio Valley/Garfagnana, an unexploited area geographically located in northern Tuscany, characterized by a predominantly mountainous and hilly territory, nestled between the majestic peaks of the Apuan Alps and the gentlest slopes of the Tuscan-Emilian Apennines.

Even within the bowels of the Valley there are elements of interest (worth a visit to the Grotta del Vento one of the deepest caves in Europe, with its 3 guided tours).
ADVENTURES IN THE WILD

Do not miss the Orecchiella Park, a natural reserve where you can meet a friendly guest: the brown bear.

This territory offers not only uncontaminated nature to live fully and breathtaking views but also several historical testimonies such as fortresses and stone built strongholds dating back to ‘400/500, ancient villages perfectly preserved and admirable examples of hermitages and monasteries embedded in the rock of the mountains for example, the Hermitage of Calomini).

The Serchio Valley/Garfagnana will not disappoint anyone, not even those who like to taste typical products, without haste, in perfect “slow” style (mushrooms, Garfagnana’s spelled products made with chestnut flour, the famous native corn “8 file”, and local cured meats and cheeses, spelt beet etc...).
Other activities to try include paragliding, hang gliding, canyoning, rafting, wild-trout fishing and even spelunking, where you can take part in excursions that allow you to visit the depths of Mother Earth.

Overlooking the park, there’s an old elementary school with chimneys and woodburning ovens that echoes real life and the desire to grow. Over the decades, there have been those that have very patiently preserved the legacy of past centuries to keep it alive and give it to the future.
