THE CHEF'S PERFECT SANDWICH

Hickory smoked burnt ends, fried onion strings, Kansas City Barbecue sauce, sweet brioche bun 10

Living in Kansas City my whole life means growing up in the barbeque capital of the world where barbeque is second nature, not only in eating it but also in understanding it. You learn at a young age, pickles are must and nothing pairs better with barbeque than strawberry soda. The smell of hickory wood mixed with blends of herbs and spices draws you in to what us locals call "burnt ends". They are the staple here, cut from the point half of the brisket, smokey crisp bark on at least one side while juicy and rendered inside, piled between a sweet roll, topped with housemade barbeque sauce, fried onions and served with a pickle is the way a true barbeque sandwich is made.
